

The Indiana "No Call" policy is a good example of government the citizenry. My husband and I signed up immediately and the impact on our household is immeasurable: no more dinner hour interruptions, no more calls as late as 10pm (we have an infant and pre-schooler), no more calls on - of all things - Sunday mornings after church. Telemarketing calls had become unbearable long ago. Now, for the most part, they are a distant and awful memory. Please keep it that way and leave the teeth in this article that protects the privacy of my home. Thank you.
